Thought for the Week

The call to action continues with this week's readings from the Revised Common Lectionary. Although the readings seem to be quite disparate in their themes, the single thread that runs through them all is the call to live with grace, integrity and compassion for both friend and enemy. It's the small, daily acts of love and forgiveness, of honesty and compassion that make a significant difference in the world, and it is these acts that we are invited to make the habits of our lives.

May the grace, honesty and compassion of Jesus be seen in us a little more because we have worshipped this week.

Saturday 17 August – Purely for Fun Quiz Night. Can you beat our Chasers? Come and have a go! Come as a team of four or just join another group. Start 7.00 pm. A light supper will be served during the evening. Prizes for best team, second best team and second-last team!

Games our next games time is planned for 6th September at 12.00pm. Bring your own lunch and join us.

The trouble with talking too fast is that you may say something you haven't thought of yet.
